From the moment I started reading this book, I was hooked. The author has a gift for storytelling, and she has woven a tale that is both heartbreaking and uplifting. I felt like I was right there with the characters, experiencing their joys and sorrows.

The story is set during World War II, and it follows the lives of a group of people who are trying to survive in the midst of the chaos. There is love, loss, and resilience, and the author does an amazing job of bringing these emotions to life.

I especially loved the character of Anya. She is a young woman who is forced to grow up quickly in order to survive. She is strong, brave, and resourceful, and I couldn't help but root for her.

I also enjoyed the relationship between Anya and her brother, Misha. They are very close, and they rely on each other to get through the tough times. Their bond is unbreakable, and it is one of the things that makes this book so special.

This book is a must-read for anyone who loves historical fiction. It is a well-written and emotionally resonant story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
